David Morgan, Silver-Investor.com
“When To Buy the Metals”

Dear Friends:

The following, recently recorded, David Morgan Video is worthwhile watching. The expectations that David voices here agree with the expectations we have and which were recently verified by our findings during our travels to Toronto, New York, Zurich and London.

As we stated in our April 2008 Alert #45: “The metals are an opportunity ahead and this metals and commodities bubble has a lot further to go”. We suggested: “Hold your current positions and buy new positions gradually by averaging-in over the coming months”.

We reiterate the points we made in April:

“People are now blinded by their Bearishness. Make no mistake about it - - they are WRONG - - yes, DEAD WRONG!”

As David Morgan confirms the trend is still our friend and is firmly in place for the longer term.

The astute investor now has a buying opportunity. It might be July before the Funds start getting in but you should be in there ahead of them, so sharpen your pencils and start picking your spots and as we have said before, by Christmas we all should be happy campers.
